

As a ham radio operator I am against allowing Broadband over unshieled power lines. It will cause undue interference to all hams. The telecommunication industry already has more capacity that they can use in my life time.